Summer Surf Continues Into Fall with Weekend Waveshakers at NLand

Boneshaker Project and NLand Team Up With Saturday Surf Clinic for Kids Ages 8-13

AUSTIN, Texas - Following a sold-out summer surf camp, NLand and Boneshaker Project are partnering again this fall to provide a weekend surf clinic for groms (that's surf-speak for kiddos), every Saturday, September 16th, through October 28th.

Kids ages eight-to-thirteen can enroll in up to four Saturday surf clinics, enjoying three hours of fun on each Saturday, including local athlete speakers, activities and games, lunch, 30 minutes of dry land surf instruction, and 50 minutes of surfing, led by an NLand surf coach.

"It's amazing to see kids who have never surfed, stand up on their boards during that first coaching session. The consistency of the waves at NLand makes for the perfect environment to teach surfing, and share the stoke with a whole new generation of surfers in Central Texas," says Alex Ecenia, Executive Director at Boneshaker Project.

Surfers who participate in more than one Saturday will have the opportunity to progress from NLand's beginner "Bay Wave" to the intermediate-level "Inside Wave," with world-class surf coaches leading every lesson.

Each weekend, Boneshaker will spotlight a local Austin athlete or fitness professional who will come speak, demo their skills and share their passion with Waveshakers. Expect engaging activities such as hula hooping, boxing, BMX, and more.

Pricing per participant is $150 for a single Saturday, $250 (save $50) for two Saturdays, $375 (save $75) for three Saturdays, and $500 (save $100) for four Saturdays.
